This is now answers to questions from people in the chat room. By the way, we have 813 people viewing this. I'm just so thrilled that I can't tell you at any given point.

I'm going to start answering your questions in the chat room. Obviously, if you're watching the recording of this, you can't hear the questions. I'm going to repeat them as I see them in the chat room, and then I'll give the answers.

Again, please ask questions in the chat room only about this topic I just presented. I will not take questions on any other topic. Here's a question from Rasputin. He asks, "Ross, do you care to give some advice on avoiding ending up in the friend zone in the first place?"

If you want to avoid ending up in the friend zone in the first place, use the tools of Speed Seduction®, especially learning to offer different vibes and the language patterns.

"Does this work on married buddies?" It can work on married buddies. I don't know if I would advise you to do that, but yes, it can.

"What's special about this touch in particular?" Someone asked about the erotic touch. The back of the neck is really loaded with wonderful nerve endings and erotic stimulus points. The palm of the hand, in my experience and also from what I've read, has some really powerful energy centers. That's what works there.

Here's a really good question from What Would RJ Do? "How do you fix a situation where you've already given a lot of gifts?" I would just stop doing it. Break the pattern and just stop cold turkey. Don't give gifts anymore. Your presence should be enough of a gift. You have to stop that.

I'm naturally a very generous person. I spoil the crap out of my ex-girlfriend because I can. I'm not interested in her sexually, and I need to love and spoil someone, so I spoil her. If you must, find someone to spoil, but don't spoil the girl you want to sleep with.

By the way, if you're watching this live, you may know that you received a gift coupon that's good for the next 24 hours. You can go to my website, www.Seduction.com, and purchase any product at a 30% discount. Jump in there right now, guys. We've got a full range of products.

"What if you go to dinner with your friend and pay 50-50?" If you're paying 50-50, that's not really buying her a dinner. That's splitting it. I would continue to split it that way.

There's someone here called Spanish Guy who has a question. He says he's at the point with a girl where she's giving him the eye scan, but she keeps asking about the boyfriend. Here's what you do. I've got the perfect closer for that, Spanish Guy.

Say to her, "Debbie, here's the question you really have to ask yourself. What's the one thing about you that you think is so unique that it would keep any guy coming back for more?" When she's pondering it, before she answers, say, "I think I know what it is." Pull her toward you, and kiss her. That's exactly what you do.

"Would you suggest trying this if she has a boyfriend?" Why not? As I've said, boyfriends are like colds. Anyone can catch one at any time. It doesn't mean you can't shake him off when you really want to, Debbie.

"How do I express anger without insulting her?" That's simple. Just say what you don't like. Say, "I don't like it when you criticize me in front of people like you just did. Never do that again. If you have something to say to me that's critical, that's fine. Say it to me in private when there's no one else around." State what you don't like, and then state what you expect her to do.

Someone wants to know if you can use this with a roommate. Yes, you can. I've turned roommates into lovers. Sometimes I've regretted it.

"How do you do this if she's not a close friend? You're in the friend zone, but you don't see her that often." That's fine. Use the principles, but you're going to have to space it out over a longer period of time as you work in the context.

Someone wants to know what my opinion is about talking about sex with female friends. I think it can be done and get a girl hot and horny.

In these 10 methods, I deliberately decided not to include any overtly sexual topics or language patterns because so many of you have expressed concern that you didn't want to rely on language patterns. Yes, I think you absolutely can and should. That's not part of what I'm teaching here.

Someone wants to know if the PowerPoint notes are available. I will make the PowerPoint available at some point. When we put up the replay of this, we will make the PowerPoint downloads available, as well.

Someone asked a really good question. Jorgen asked, "Do you use these techniques all at once or space them out?" Use all of them, or as many of them as you can. Some of them you use very sparingly. Techniques 3 and 4, the uncomfortable silence and uncomfortable eye contact, you only use once or twice.

Someone asked, "Will it help you get respect from other people?" That's not what it's designed to do.

"Does it work on ex-girlfriends you've decided to become friends with?" I really don't know. That might well work. The best thing with an ex-girlfriend is to legitimately date someone else and really dig that other person, and encourage the ex to date someone.

That really disarms her completely. Encourage the ex to date someone, and date someone you can really like. That'll bring the ex running back.

Someone wanted to know about using the touch technique. "Is it okay to use it only for a few seconds and get up and leave?" I prefer to use it that way because you're taking it away. You're not letting her have it for too long, so she's going to reach for more. I touch women that way, and when I come back, they'll take my hand and put it back there and say, "I didn't say you could stop."

Someone wants to know if it's easier to start in the friend zone and move to lovers. I don't think so. It doesn't work that well for me.

"How often do you suggest we meet with her to run these techniques?" Meet as much as is comfortable. Remember, you're already in the friend zone with these girls. However often you meet with her, don't change the frequency. Just use the frequency that you've already established as her friend.

Someone wants to know about the lower-back stroke. I also teach touching the small of the back. It can work, but stick with this. This is the most powerful. Stick with one thing. Don't complicate it. You can touch the small of the back, but it's not as effective.

I've found this and also touching the thumb, of all places, work best. I had a girl wet herself and say to me, "Is that supposed to be going right between my legs? Because that's going right between my legs."

"What if some time has passed since we last talked? How do we reinitiate the conversation?" Just call her up and say, "I was wondering how you're doing. Let's meet for a coffee."

Someone wants to know if I can sum up the most effective idea in getting a friend into a lover. Really, it's two things. Number 1 is having the right attitude and perspective on doing this. It's not something you have to make happen.

Number 2 is subtlety. All of this has to be done really subtly. Instead of pushing hard and straining, to use a metaphor, it's a very light touch. You don't want to push this really hard. That's not how this is going to work.

Someone says they have cold hands. Warm them up. Put them on your crotch.

"Can you do this with coworkers or business partners?" Yes, but here's the thing. Listen to me. If they're not already your friends, then just use some of the Speed Seduction® techniques and language patterns. It will work in all contexts.

"How do I speak to her again if she's very angry?" If she's got anger issues, leave her alone.

Niner Gets Lucky asks, "Can you score with a hired gun?" Yes. "How about friends you've had for a really long time?" It doesn't matter how long you've been friends with her. Go ahead and use this.

"What is the expected close percentage?" Thirty percent to 40% is the expected close percentage. Remember, this is a tricky thing, mostly because most guys lose patience and go back to their old ways of doing things. The hardest thing is staying away from your old patterns.

Someone asked, "Are there any other topics to avoid, besides love advice?" I just don't want to give advice with her. I don't want to discuss heavy topics unless it's a way to transition to some kind of sexual language pattern.

This program I've given you here is designed to avoid language patterns. If it doesn't work in that 60% of the time, nothing happens. You never get the eye scans or signs that she's attracted to you, so you never go for it. Nothing really happens. It doesn't damage the friendship. Remember, you're only going to go for it here when you see those signs that she's interested.

"How do I make her go out with me? We've always been in the friend zone." Again, it's not about going out on a date. You're missing the whole point. What magic will happen out on the date that won't happen if you just sit there for coffee? You're still stuck in the dating frame that somehow a date is an agreement on her part to have sex with you, when in fact, it's not.

Someone wants me to go out with the eye contact. "What if I give her the eye contact and she asks me what happened?" Say, "I don't know what you're talking about," and keep looking at her. Don't explain this to anybody.

"Does this work over the phone?" I prefer to be in person. You can see and do so much more in person. Do it in person, however you can do it.

Techno said, "When speaking normally, use sexual tones. When speaking sexually, use normal tones." No, we're just saying one technique, which is normal conversation or non-sexual topic, but sexual tonality.

"How might you approach this if you want to add in language patterns?" If you're going to layer in language patterns, then you can start talking about sexual topics, use quotes, tell dirty jokes and then anchor her responses to the dirty jokes. That's a whole other level of discussion.

Tell a dirty joke, and when you see her getting sexual or she says, "Mm," then imitate her self-anchors. Grab hold of her self-anchors and fire them off.
